Kensico Consulting - Broadband Convergence Is Our Only Business Mission Statement What We Do
Kensico provides business and technical analysis for broadband voice, video and data convergence strategies, and architecture and implementation services for carrier and enterprise markets. Our Convergence Experience
The Kensico team has successfully architected and deployed network infrastructures and the surrounding elements to enable voice, video and data services over existing and next generation networks since the mid-1990s. What We Can Do For You This experience will help provide the support needed to make strategic decisions regarding convergence and assist in the architecture, implementation and deployment of a convergence strategy that meets your firm's needs.
